Suspense over Russian oil as govt mum on issue

THE 25% PENALTY tariff stands withdrawn from 12.01 am EST February 7 and the Trump administration has also put in place a mechanism to “monitor whether India resumes directly or indirectly” import of Russian oil. The three elements – stopping Russian oil imports, buying energy from the US and boosting defence cooperation – are part of the larger strategic deal between India and the US.

On February 5, in first remarks since Trump’s statement that PM Modi had “agreed to stop buying Russian oil” and “to buy much more from the US and, potentially, Venezuela,” and that “this will help end the war in Ukraine”, the MEA said India was “diversifying energy sourcing” in keeping with “objective market conditions and evolving international dynamics”.

On Saturday, too, officials pointed to the remarks by the MEA spokesperson who said “insofar as India’s energy sourcing is concerned, the government has stated publicly on several occasions that ensuring the energy security of 1.4 billion Indians is the supreme priority of the government. Diversifying our energy sourcing in keeping with objective market conditions and evolving international dynamics is at the core of our strategy to ensure this. All of India’s actions are taken and will be taken with this in mind.”

As per the White House order, “The Secretary of Commerce, in coordination with the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, and any other senior official the Secretary of Commerce deems appropriate, shall monitor whether India resumes directly or indirectly importing Russian Federation oil. If the Secretary of Commerce finds that India has resumed directly or indirectly importing Russian Federation oil, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the US Trade Representative, the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, the Assistant to the President for Economic Policy, and the Assistant to the President and Senior Counselor for Trade and Manufacturing, shall recommend whether and to what extent I should take additional action as to India, including whether I should reimpose the additional ad valorem rate of duty of 25% on imports of articles of India.”

This step puts India in a diplomatically difficult position. After the Russian invasion of Ukraine, India had increased oil imports since Moscow was offering discounted rates. Delhi’s rationale was that its decision was guided by commercial interests since it wanted to cushion the inflationary impact of crude price hikes, and so it was buying from the lowest rate-offering countries, and Russia was the most competitive in that area.

India said that the government was not involved in the process of buying oil, and it was the companies that made the decisions. This worked well until Trump assumed office. Failing to broker peace between Russia, Ukraine despite attempts over 6 months, he began squeezing the biggest buyers of Russian energy. India faced the heat, and the 25% tariff penalty for buying Russian oil. In the last few months, India’s Russian oil imports have declined steadily to a three-year low, as per tanker data.

India refuses to budge

THE ELIMINATION OF the oil tariff takes effect from 12:01 am Washington time on February 7, while the reduction in reciprocal tariffs to 18% will follow shortly after a separate executive order. Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal said the relief on oil duties would be immediate, while the reciprocal tariff cut may take a few more days to be notified. “The 25% oil duties will be reduced immediately as the executive order has come. The reciprocal duties will be brought down to 18% after a separate order,” he added.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday said the interim trade agreement with the US will strengthen ‘Make in India’ by opening up new opportunities for farmers and entrepreneurs, and create jobs for women and youngsters. The PM also thanked US President Donald Trump for his personal commitment to robust ties between India and the US. “Great news for India and USA! We have agreed on a framework for an Interim Trade Agreement between our two great nations,” Modi posted on X. He said this framework reflected the growing depth, trust and dynamism of the India-US partnership. “As India moves forward towards building a Viksit Bharat, we remain committed to building global partnerships that are future-oriented, empower our people and contribute to shared prosperity,” he said.

A formal agreement is now being drafted and is expected to take about a month. Once it is signed, India will begin phasing down duties on imports from the US. In a joint statement, Washington also said it would take into consideration India’s request for further tariff reductions during negotiations on a full-fledged US-India Bilateral Trade Agreement (BTA), talks for which began last February. To meet the $500-billion purchase commitment, India will import a wide basket of American goods over five years, including energy products, aircraft and aircraft parts, precious metals,

Congress leader Pawan Khera speaks to the media

‘No deal, but surrender’

THE CONGRESS CLAIMED on Saturday that the Indo-US trade pact is “not a deal but a surrender” of the country’s self-esteem and interests, and that it is a betrayal of India and its people. Addressing a press conference,

Congress’s media and publicity department head Pawan Khera also claimed that India will soon become a dumping ground for American products and it will hurt the interests of the farmers and small and medium industries. PTI technology products, and coking coal. Both sides also agreed to significantly expand trade in technology products, including graphics processing units and other equipment used in data centres, and to deepen joint technology cooperation. Goyal described this as a major gain for India, given US export controls on high-performance computing chips used in artificial intelligence.

In agriculture, Goyal stressed that no concessions have been extended to sensitive agricultural segments including grains, fruits and vegetables, spices, oilseeds, dairy, poultry and meat, even as India secured preferential access for its own exports. However, India has agreed to reduce duties on a range of US products such as dried distillers’ grains, red sorghum (jowar) for animal feed, tree nuts, fresh and processed fruit, soybean oil, wine and spirits, etc. On industrial side, India will cut or reduce duties on several US goods. Import tariffs on Harley-Davidson motorcycles will be cut to zero.

In return, Indian exports in labour-intensive sectors such as textiles and apparel, leather and footwear, plastics and rubber, organic chemicals, certain machinery, home décor and artisanal products will now face an additional duty of 18% in the US market instead of 50%. The higher tariffs had come into effect at the end of August, putting Indian exports under sustained pressure. The lower rate now gives India a competitive edge over exporters from Vietnam, Malaysia and Bangladesh. Beyond these sectors, the US has agreed to remove reciprocal tariffs on a separate list of goods subject to additional negotiations, including generic pharmaceuticals, gems and diamonds, and aircraft parts, contingent on the successful conclusion of the interim BTA. Some relief on aircraft parts will also come through a review of tariffs imposed under Section 232 of US national security law. India has agreed to address a set of long-standing non-tariff barriers, including easing restrictions on US medical devices, eliminating import licensing procedures that delay or limit market access for US IT goods, and examining whether US-developed or international standards can be accepted for American exports in identified sectors. Trade Representative Jamieson Greensaid the deal would require further work from New Delhi to dismantle trade barriers, but said it was a major opening for American producers.

Bhakti becomes big business

“THE RISE OF large-scale kirtan concerts such as those led by devotional artiste Radhika Das now fill arenas across Indian metros and international destinations, including Dubai and London. Revenue streams mirror those of mainstream concerts—ticket sales, sponsorships, brand activations, and intellectual property monetisation. It is transforming devotional experiences into premium entertainment formats. We are seeing serious capital flow via real estate sponsors like M3M India, state tourism boards, and lifestyle brands are investing at stadium-concert levels because this format delivers what modern brands seek — high emotional engagement, multi-generational reach, and culturally safe environments that build long-term equity, not just visibility,” said Kulkarni.

For instance, brother-sister duo band, Backstage Siblings (Prachi & Raghav), known for their bhajan-jamming sessions have a packed pan-India tour in Mumbai (February 8), Pune (February 14), Hyderabad (February 21), Bengaluru (February 28), supported by music record label brand Saregama and radio partner Red FM. The early bird ticket is priced at ₹999, while phase 1 ticket is for ₹1,299 on BookMyShow. The Mumbai event on February 8 was sold out last week itself. Event companies like Alive Experiences are professionalising the space, who exclusively manage Keshavam—the devotional rock band popularising the bhajan clubbing format—across Delhi, Mumbai, Bengaluru, and Kolkata where events are almost sold out.

A report by District by Zomato titled ‘Touching Grass: How India Will Go Out in 2026’ suggests that bhajan clubbing among urban Gen Z hints at the potential of lore-heavy Bharatcore experiences, recognisable cultural grammar remixed with play. Players like Rajeev Jain of Rashi Entertainment, an experienced leader in the entertainment industry with over 30 years of experience, are debuting with a pan-India tour in March across Delhi, Ludhiana, Jaipur, Mumbai with bhajan performing artistes Saaz and Prakhar. “Bhajan clubbing is a very lucrative business idea shaping a new cultural narrative for those who like to meditate, love music and dance, especially the Gen Z, and the way they are re-imagining spirituality,” said Rajeev Jain, founder & director, Rashi Entertainment. The tickets for this show starts at ₹1,000 for general balcony and go up to ₹5,000 for a VIP pass. “We are roping in international artistes also in our future lineup. It is heartening to see that we have already sold over 400 tickets for the upcoming show in March in Delhi at the Talkatora Stadium. While there is interest for tie-ups for bhajan clubbing, we are expecting state governments and car companies, retail brands to finalise sponsorships soon,” said Jain.

PM Narendra Modi, in his monthly broadcast Mam lei Baat, praised young Indians for embracing bhajan clubbing, calling it “a powerful blend of devotion, culture, spirituality and modernity” and comparing its scale and impact to global concerts, and that from a financial standpoint the model is robust.

Money-wise, Kulkarni estimates production and artiste costs range between ₹1.2 crore and ₹1.6 crore per city, sponsorship packages begin at around ₹5 lakh for associate partners and can go up to ₹50-60 lakh per town for larger collaborations with tourism boards and major brands. Ticketing, managed through online platforms, forms the core revenue stream. “The format goes beyond being just a bhajan event. It reflects a wider cultural shift — where the same audience that might watch a mainstream film like Dhurandhar is equally inclined to participate in an interactive devotional music experience. People sing, perform, and become part of the experience,” added Kulkarni.
